

The Veterans Assemble at Headquarters and Discuss Old Times

GENERAL STUART AND MEMBERS OF HIS STAFF.

STATES ALL SEND BIG DELEGATIONS

Busy Scenes Around Headquarters of Different Divisions During Yesterday.

COMING ON ALL TRAINS

Old Comrades Get Together and Discuss War-Time Experiences Again.

The city of Richmond is again in the possession of the Confederates. They are to be found on every hand. They are marching up and down the streets, the same streets that they tramped in the sixties, and now, as then, they came from every part of the Southland. They are here from every State, from the Rio Grande to the Potomac, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific—for, be it known, there are camps of Confederate veterans beyond the Rocky Mountains. It is true that these far Western camps are made up of veterans who were from the original Confederate States, and have since the war moved westward to make their fortunes. In moving they did not forget the traditions and the "old boys" formed camps even in the enemy's country. Numbers of these camps located in Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Kansas, Oklahoma and Indian Territory are represented here on this glad reunion occasion.

All the State headquarters were yesterday scenes of handshakings and rejoicing. Old soldiers who had not met for years, some of them not since the war days, got together again and renewed old friendships. In all the State headquarters registers were kept just as in a hotel, and comrades had but little trouble in locating other comrades who had come in, that is if they registered promptly. However, there was some complaint that too many of the "old boys" failed to go to their own particular headquarters and register.

Old Kentucky Home.

Kentucky headquarters are in the old cafe room of the Allen Hotel, at Tenth and Broad Streets. Early in the morning Kentuckians commenced to walk in and register, and when the afternoon trains came from the west the list grew rapidly, until by bedtime last night it had upon it the names of nearly three hundred.

Among the Kentuckians at headquarters there are many of John Morgan's men, "Morgan's Raiders" they were called in war times, and if braver men ever galloped over the earth the historians have failed to record their deeds. The badge these Kentucky men wear has upon it a picture of the famous cavalryman.

Captain W. T. Chisholm, of Lexington, Ky., is one of the Morgan raiders, who was yesterday doing the honors at Kentucky headquarters. He was assisted by Lieutenant F. J. Cleveland, of Cincinnati, who walks with a maimed leg, but he takes pains to explain that the injury is not due to a Yankee bullet, but to a drawing knife he was vigorously using after the war in honest labor, trying to rebuild his lost fortune. Private Dan Lerrine, of Mayesville, is another one of the fine looking old boys at Kentucky headquarters. He, too, followed Morgan in that wonderful raid in the heart of the enemy's country.

Among the Kentuckians there are some splendid singers, and when Captain Frank Cunningham called on them late yesterday afternoon they sang "Old Kentucky Home" for him.

Arkansas in Good Force.

"Don't call it Ar-Kansas, as they pronounce Kansas, please, but say we are from Arkansas." Thus spoke one of the fine looking gray-coated veterans at the Arkansas headquarters, at No. 905 East Broad Street. "We live a good ways from Virginia," continued this grizzled veteran, "and many of the old boys are poor and can't get their way. I am afraid we will not show up very strong at this reunion, but you can say that those left at home are with us in the spirit." It was noticeable that many of the veterans registered from Arkansas were in their soldier days from other States. They have moved to the good Arkansas since the time that the men's souls, Lieutenant George M. Edgar, who was a member of the Twenty-Sixth Virginia Cavalry, was for a number of years the president of the Arkansas University, and he belonged to a Confederate camp in that State. He registered with the Arkansas boys.

Missouri At Murphy's.

Missouri headquarters are at Murphy's Hotel. The Missouri boys hold the fort in Room 22 and also in the lobby. Major-General John B. Stone, who commands the Missouri division of Confederate veterans, is at the head of the delegation. He and all the members of his staff were in the lobby yesterday in bright, new Confederate uniforms. Among the officers on hand were Captain John Sharr, of Vernon county; Colonel W. C. Brown, of Henry county, a county which was settled by Virginians, who knew how to raise tobacco, any they do say they named their county for the confederacy, of the same name in this State, which, of course, was named for Patrick Henry; Major E. J. Goen and Captain H. C. Gregg, of Kansas City. Other officers in the delegation are Adjutant-General B. K. Morton, Colonel A. Atkinson, General J. D. Ingram, commander of the Western Brigade; General Thomas J. Cousins, of the Eastern Brigade; Captain James McDonald and Colonel J. W. Williamson. There are not fewer than 200 Missourians on hand.

Wheels Are Numerous.

North Carolina headquarters at San-

(1) Major W. J. Johnson, Chief of Commissary Department; (2) Major H. B. McClellan, Assistant Adjutant-General; (3) Captain T. S. Garnett, Aide-de-Camp; (4) Major John Estlin Cooke, Chief of Ordnance; (5) Captain Charles Griffin, Aide-de-Camp; (6) Major J. M. Hanger, Quartermaster; (7) Colonel Heron Von Borcke, Assistant Adjutant-General; (8) Major Channing Price, Assistant Adjutant-General; (9) Captain C. Dabney, Aide-de-Camp; (10) Major John Fontaine, Surgeon; (11) Captain Richard E. Frayer, Chief of Signal Corps; (12) Major A. R. Venable, Inspector-General.

This group, made up of rare original photographs, is published by The Times-Dispatch through the courtesy of Wren's Richmond Book Exchange, No. 209 North Fifth Street.

ger Hall was a scene of liveliness all day yesterday. The old boys were in from all parts of the old Tenth State. General Julian S. Carr, of Durham, the commander of the North Carolina Division, was the first to register at headquarters, thus proving himself a real leader. Next on the list is the name of his chief of staff, Major Thomas L. Emory, of Weldon. The third name on the register is that of Rev. A. D. Betts, of Warren county, who was a war chaplain, and is now the chaplain of the North Carolina Division, Confederate Veterans. The North Carolina boys have lots of room in Sanger Hall, and they have brought along a large number of tents and other camp equipment. They are so near to home they are making themselves comfortable without calling on Richmond hospitalities. "We Tarheels," said Chaplain Betts, "know how to take care of ourselves. There will be 5,000 of us here before the thing is over."

To-morrow night the North Carolina contingent will be tendered a reception by the North Carolina Society of Richmond.

Alabama and Maryland.

Maryland and Alabama are at St. Mary's School on Marshall Street. The authorities of the school early in the action tendered to the committee the use of their splendid building, and the Marylanders and Alabamians were quartered there. The Alabama folk have a large and commodious room on the second floor, and up to a late hour last night they had registered 240 men. "Two trains, loaded down, will leave Montgomery to-day and to-night," said Captain C. C. Crow, "and I reckon before the boys get rolling arriving, we will have as many as 600 Alabamians at this reunion."

Captain Crow is the commander of Gordon Memorial Camp at Anniston, formerly of Maryland, now of New York, head the Maryland delegation at St. Mary's School. They say this morning's trains will enlarge the Maryland contingent until it will number something like 500.

From the Cane Breaks.

Mississippi headquarters are at No. 502 East Marshall Street, and a goodly number of the old fighters from the State of cane breaks have already registered. General Robert Lowry, of Jackson, who has served a term as Governor of his State, and most likely will wind up his public life as United States Senator is the commander of the Mississippi division. He will reach the city this morning. Several members of his staff are already here, among them General William Montgomery, commander of the First Brigade, General P. J. Carter, of the Second Brigade, who is now the Lieutenant-Governor of the State, and General George M. Helm, commander of the Third Brigade. General Helm is a Virginian by birth, having first seen the light of day in Franklin county, but he left it before he could see good.

Other Mississippians registered at headquarters yesterday are Major E. W. Blanchard, of Greenwood; Captain J. C. Wadsworth, of the regiment; Robert Smith Camp, of that city, and Major Charles Humphries.

"I want to see the house in which the great man of modern times spent four years of his eventful life. Will you pilot me to it?" Thus spoke General Helm, and a dozen Mississippians joined in the request. The Times-Dispatch man knew without being told that they wanted to see the White House of the Confederacy, where Jefferson Davis lived in war times, and he took pleasure in "piloting" the loyal Mississippians to the Confederate Museum, where the good women in charge gave them a hearty welcome. General Helm says there will be about six hundred Mississippians in the parade when the Davis Monument is unveiled.

Virginia From the West.

The West Virginia contingent has headquarters at No. 502 East Marshall, and up to last night about a hundred of them had registered. Most of the men hailing from the State beyond the mountains served in Virginia regiments, and they are Virginians, too. "There were no nobler men and no better fighters in the Confederate Army than the Virginians who are now known as West Virginians," said one of the men at West Virginia headquarters yesterday, and he spoke the truth. It is likely that three hundred West Virginians are in attendance upon the reunion.

From the Land of Flowers.

The Florida folk are comfortably quartered at the University College of Medicine, and the young men who have just quitted their studies at that institution are doing everything in their power to make them happy and contented. One of the first men to register from the bright land of flowers was Rev. H. H. Sturgis, of Sanford, who was one of the fighting chaplains of war times. He was the chaplain of the Forty-fourth Alabama Regiment. He looked after the spiritual condition of the boys, but always kept his musket in reach, and when the drum taps announced a pending battle he shouldered the piece and did a little business that was not strictly spiritual. It is said that Parson Sturgis was one of the best shots in the Forty-fourth Alabama.

Forests and Ashby.

At the University College the men of General Forrest's command also have headquarters, but very few have so far registered. One of them explained to The Times-Dispatch man yesterday that mighty few of them are left to register.

It is a remarkable fact that two of Forrest's men who are registering with the boys are now citizens of Richmond. Dr. William Whitsett, of Richmond College, and Rev. Dr. W. R. L. Smith, the pastor of the Second Baptist Church.

It is likely that Rev. Dr. Smith was the youngest member of that famous cavalry command, as many as three hundred. Another room has been set apart at the University College for Ashby's men. General Turner Ashby commanded as brave a set of young men as ever drew sabre in defence of country and home. They went where there was danger, and many of them fell in battle—many that but few are left. Up to last night only nine of Ashby's men had registered at headquarters.

Many From Georgia.

Georgia headquarters are at the Mechanics' Institute, and a large number from that State have registered, possibly as many as three hundred. Special trains from Atlanta, Savannah and Macon, expected to reach here this morning, will probably swell the crowd to seven hundred—maybe a thousand.

Among the Georgians registered yesterday was Captain George S. Essex, of Chicago. Of course, Chicago is not in Georgia, but Captain Essex was a Georgian when he wore the gray uniform. He is now a prominent member of the Board of Trade of the Windy City, and he is said to have made a good fortune there. He is a Confederate all right, and esteems it a special privilege to care for the graves of the Confederate dead who died in the Camp Douglas Prison and were buried in that part of the country.

In the Georgia delegation is Mr. William H. Baldy, of Leesburg. He was a civil engineer in the Confederate service. He is the guest of his son, Rev. E. V. Baldy, of Manchester.

Numerous Tennesseans.

Tennessee headquarters are in the Johnson building, Eleventh and Cary Streets, and they have made a real camp of the two floors allotted to them. Beds and cots cover the two floors, and arrangements have been made for the accommodation of eight hundred men. They will be here, too. Not fewer than two hundred have already arrived, and it is expected that the Norfolk and Western and Southern Railway trains to reach here this morning will carry four or five hundred more fighters from the mountain State into the city.

The Lone Star State.

At Belvidere Hall, where it is said there is dancing one night and preaching the next, or vice versa, the Texas headquarters, and they are occupying the place in great shape. There are many Texans in the city, and they are a splendid sort of people, being fond of joking together. Up to last night four hundred of them had registered at Belvidere Hall. They have a large room, and they are making use of it.

General K. N. Van Zant, of Fort Worth, is the commander of the Texas

Store Will Close To-Day at 1 o'Clock

Welcome! U. C. V.

Heroes of '61-'65 and their friends---we extend a hearty invitation to make this store your headquarters while in Richmond. Make yourself at home in Richmond's OLDEST AND REPRESENTATIVE DRY GOODS STORE.

Sixty-five years serving the people without misrepresentation.

Embroidered Linen Parasols, $1.00

A large assortment of Parasols in all the leading colors, and latest designs.
White Linen Parasols, plain and embroidery trimmed, $1.00
Fancy Pin Striped Check and Plain Silk Parasols, here at $1.50
Stylish Brown Taffeta and Pongee Parasols, some with fancy borders, at $1.98 and... $2.48
Best grade Taffeta Parasols, in all colors, with handsome Persian ribbon border let in, here at $4.00
Handsome White Taffeta Parasols, hand painted, here at $5.00
A large assortment of White Linen Parasols, trimmed and hand embroidered ones, from $1.50 to $3.48

Reunion Orders and Notices

Headquarters Chief Marshal, General Orders No. 1, May 30, 1907.

Every veteran organization in the city is urgently requested to unite in the parade to-day. Individual veterans without any camp or organization, can march with any camp or organization of their choice, or should they organize and report to any marshal on the line they will be assigned a place in the column.

Parade orders for both parades can be had at headquarters of parade committee, Mutual Building, room 704. By order of COL. JOHN W. GORDON, Chief Marshal.

J. THOMPSON BROWN, Chief of Staff.

Headquarters Army Northern Virginia Dept. Room 552, The Jefferson, Richmond, Va., May 29, 1907.

General Order No. 1. The department will assemble for parade of May 30th, the various commands being in position by 1:30 P. M. The parade will form on the south side of Franklin Street, right resting on Fifth Street, facing north.

North Carolina Division, right resting on Fourth Street; South Carolina Division, right resting on Second Street; New York Veterans, right resting on Youngs Street; West Virginia Department, between Foushee and Adams Streets; Maryland Division, right resting on Adams Street; District of Columbia Veterans, right resting on Jefferson Street; Virginia Division, left of District of Columbia Veterans.

For all details, the general order issued by the chief marshal will be obeyed and respected. II. The staff of the department will report to the commander at his room, No. 552, Jefferson Hotel, at 12:30 P. M.

By command of LT.-GEN. C. IRVINE WALKER, Commander, A. N. V. Dept. RICHARD B. DAVIS, Adj.-Gen., Chief of Staff.

Headquarters Chief Marshal, Special Order.

All staff officers can obtain badges on application at parade headquarters, room 704, Mutual Building, before 12 o'clock to-day. The department chiefs and their aids will report in uniform at these headquarters to receive marshals' buttons and for final orders. By order of COL. JOHN W. GORDON, Chief Marshal.

J. THOMPSON BROWN, Chief of Staff.

division, and he is on hand with numerous members of his staff, among them Colonel J. H. Richardson, of Austin, who is the president of the board of directors of the Confederate Soldiers' Home of Texas, Captain J. A. Jones, of Bay City, and Colonel W. B. Woody.

Colonel Woody is also a member of the staff of General Stephen D. Lee. In war times he was a member of Wright's Artillery, and later an officer in the staff of General John B. Gordon.

From the Far West.

At Belvidere Hall the delegation from the Indian Territory also has headquarters. Most of the men in this delegation were originally from other States, and have moved to the land of the Indians since the days of carnage. About fifty of them are here, hailing from the territory.

The headquarters of the Northwestern division, men of the South, who have made their homes in Oregon, Idaho, Montana, and other Pacific States, are at the Jefferson. General Paul A. Fusz is the commander of this division, and he is here with a small contingent numbering perhaps twenty men.

They are quartered at the Jefferson as guests of General Fusz, who is engaged in the mining business in Montana, and it is said he has "struck it rich." He served in the cavalry service of the Confederacy and as a private made a reputation for bravery that commanded promotion. Although very young he was a first lieutenant when the war came.

Louisiana in Good Force.

The Louisiana men have a big room at the Crawford Building, at Adams and Main Streets. General A. L. Pringle is the commander of the Louisiana State division. He is stopping at the Jefferson, and he is also a member of the staff, among whom are Adjutant-General T. W. Casselman, Lieutenant-Colonel P. J. Wadsworth, and Major J. B. Boone. Colonel Thomas J. Shaffer, a number of General Lee's staff, is also with the Louisiana delegation. There are about 500 Louisianians in the city, and among them are a dozen survivors of the famous Louisiana Tigers.

The Palmetto Boys.

Just across the hall from Louisiana headquarters in the Crawford Building, the South Carolinians hold forth.

Headquarters Army of Tennessee, Department of Confederate Veterans, Columbus, Miss., May 29, 1907.

Special Order. With high appreciation of her gracious and practical seal on behalf of the Confederate Cause and its heroic soldiers, I have the honor to appoint Mrs. John H. Slade, of Kentucky, a department matron of young ladies who will attend unofficially the reunion at Richmond, Va., May 30th, from the States included in this department. By order:

CLEMENT A. EVANS, Lieutenant-General, Commanding.

E. T. SYKES, Adjutant-General and chief of Staff.

Richmond, May 29.

To Confederate Veterans in Convention:

Comrades: In selecting the next meeting place for the reunion, we respectfully suggest that any city bidding for the honor pledge themselves to float, display or decorate only with the true Confederate flag, as regards size, viz., four feet by four feet, and lesser flags in due proportion thereto. The present flag is a miserable fraud and the time is now here to change for historical perpetuation. R. A. OWEN, R. H. KITCH, F. H. FOOTE, Mississippi Confederate.

The West Virginia Division of Confederate Veterans will assemble for parade at No. 502 East Marshall Street, at 1 A. M. to proceed to place in line.

ROBERT C. WHITE, Major-General, Commanding. A. C. L. GATWOOD, Adjutant-General.

Stonewall Brigade is ordered to take position on left of First Brigade, Virginia Division, A. N. Virginia.

All members of Stonewall Brigade will meet northwest corner Broad and Ninth Streets, from 9 to 12 A. M. to-day, May 30th, for full information. C. A. FORTERDEN, For the Committee.

A meeting of the Immortal 600 has been called for 10 o'clock this morning at the University College of Medicine.

Col. Winfield Peters, of Baltimore, Md., will deliver an address at Sanger Hall on Friday night. His subject will be "The Story Precisely Told of the Mortal Wounding of Gen. J. E. B. Stuart at the Yellow Tavern."

Up to last night but few had registered, but it was explained that the army from that State would take the cars yesterday and last night, and reach here this morning. It is estimated that at least 600 of the "Palmetto boys" will be in the line of march.

Oklahoma is well represented. Like the Indian territory, all the men hailing from the newest State on the map from the war from States south of the Potomac. Probably fifty of these "emigrants" are in attendance upon the reunion.

Virginia headquarters, at No. 607 East Main Street, were well crowded all day yesterday. The most conservative estimate yet made, places the number of town Virginians who will take part in the festivities of the week at 8,000. Possibly that many will not be here, but at present it looks as if that estimate is very conservative. "Hannacker" and Chesterfield will unload themselves to-day, and then the street south of Richmond will, indeed, be crowded.

YOUNG STUART CANT COME.

With Appendicitis and Family Reunions at His Heels.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] NEWPORT NEWS, Va., May 29.—J. E. B. Stuart, Jr., the ten-year-old son of Collector of Customs J. E. B. Stuart, who was to have unveiled the monument of his grandfather, the great Confederate cavalry leader, in Richmond to-morrow, is ill at the Elizabeth Buxton Hospital with appendicitis. An operation has been performed and, although the child's condition this morning was alarming, to-night he is said to be rallying steadily. None of the members of the Stuart family will attend the reunion or the unveiling, as the little boy will hardly be entirely out of danger to-morrow.

Ernest Thompson Seton has started northwardly from Edinburg, for a 1,000-mile canoe trip in Canada, with the barren lands beyond Great Stone Lake as his destination. He has a companion, and the trip will take six months.

AFTER pneumonia the convalescent needs nourishing food to build up the disease-racked body. But great care must be exercised so as not to over-tax the feeble digestion.

Scott's Emulsion has cod liver oil to make blood and healthy flesh, and hypophosphites to strengthen nerves. It is pre-digested.

The best food in the world for a convalescent.

ALL DRUGGISTS, 50c. AND $1.00.

Nadinola BEAUTIFIES THE COMPLEXION

A CREAM, guaranteed to remove freckles, pimples, liver spots, etc., salowness, discolorations and eruptions; the worst case in 10 to 20 days. Leaves the skin clear, healthy and restores the beauty of youth. Endorsed by thousands of grateful ladies. 50c., $1.00, by your druggist or mail.

NATIONAL TOILET COMPANY, Paris, Tenn.